A new writing festival for North-East Scotland

May is the month when Aberdeen lights up with exciting literary talent. wordfringe, now in its second year, presents a programme featuring new and promising poets and fiction writers at the beginning of their careers as well as established writers working in innovative contexts.

Most events are free, so be adventurous, come along and sample some of the incredible range of talent in our midst.

This leaflet lists all the events in wordfringe 2007, but please visit the website www.wordfringe.co.uk for full details of the events, including photographs and biographies of the authors taking part in the festival.
